Dogs, garbage no mix in South Bay

By DEAN JONES
Herald-Observer Editor
SOUTH BAY—Dogs and garbage don't mix was the consensus opinion during the City Commission meeting Tuesday night, when commissioners agreed with several residents that the city needs to begin enforcing animal control laws.

Mayor Billy Wells gave Police Chief E. K. Burroughs authority to check into state laws governing pets and public nuisances when Catherine Siddham of First Avenue, John T. Deaton and Oscar Schwarzenberg, both of Coconut Court, all complained of a neighbor whose seven to nine dogs are keeping them awake at night.

Burroughs said he had faced a similar problem in the city where he was before coming to South Bay and, if he recalled, there is a state law which forbids any person in a residential area from owning more than two dogs or three cats.

"If you'll give me until the next meeting (Dec. 4)," Burroughs said, "I believe I can straighten this out without too much trouble."

The subject first came up two weeks ago during the regular city commission meeting when residents complained about dogs knocking over garbage cans, a complaint which has apparently become emphasized more since residents have gone over to curbside pickup.

"Our street looked like a garbage dump last week," Deaton said.

City Attorney James Gann said the city's code of ordinances doesn't reflect a comment made by Commissioner Don Tanner that the city had adopted the Palm Beach County Animal Control ordinance in 1977, in part, and Mayor Wells also said the city could use the next two weeks to determine just what the city's ordinances are concerning leash laws, inoculations for rabies and licensing.

Burroughs said one of the problems with the county Animal Control Department is that they only send officers to South Bay on request or once a week and can only pick up about seven dogs without problems.

There was some discussion to the effect the city may send notices to residents with water bills informing them of the severity of the problem and set a date for a concentrated roundup of unlicensed dogs.

Burroughs said he had counted 119 dogs Tuesday and 23 roaming in one neighborhood. He said one person had been bitten Monday by a dog.

In other action, the commission:
• Directed City Manager Charles Merz to follow through on a request by the Post Office to erect street signs. Merz said preliminary estimates indicate it will cost the city $1,848 to buy the signs and hardware for the entire city.
Merz said the Post Office had told him it is considering home delivery of mail but one requirement is street signs.

• Awarded a bid in the amount of $7,499 to Doug Lockhart Ford of Belle Glade to buy a pickup truck for the city sewer department.

• Adopted a resolution to abandon a 1 x 50 foot strip of land adjoining the old city hall in preparation to selling the building.

• Directed Merz to follow through on plans to attempt to get a coordinated evacuation plan set up in case of hurricanes or other disasters.

When is a turkey not a turkey???

When is a turkey not, necessarily, a Thanksgiving dinner? When it's a classroom assignment, naturally.

And the four- and five-year-old students in Sandra Jarriel's Pahokee Elementary School kindergarten class treated their particular turkey as assignments recently when their teacher asked them to describe, to her, exactly what process turns a turkey into the golden, succulent dish known as Roasted Thanksgiving Turkey.

Their answers, ranging from thoughtful guesses to nearly accurate descriptions, included everything from feathers to fry pans.

Airedie Byrnes: You turn the stove on, and put a pot on it. You cook it with a pot, and the fire cooks it.

Michelle Cox: Bake it. And, after you cook it, you let it cool. When you get it cool, you eat.

Ulysses Johnson: Put him in a stove. You can eat him; get a fork and put him in your mouth and chew him.

Edwin Hastings: I think in the oven. I don't know how, the other part. I don't watch. Loretta Thornton: With a stove. Turn on the stove, get a lot when you get through cooking.

Tobe Osborne: Ya clean it. I don't know what else. Cut his head off, cut his feathers off... don't ya cut off his legs? Shave the rest of his feathers off. Then put him in the stove and then ya let him cook.

Venessa Hall: Ummmmm... ya gotta catch one and then cook him. Put 'em in a stove and, then when he gets done, take him outta the stove. When Thanksgiving comes, you can eat 'em.

Eddie Lamoureux: Fry it! Marvin Smith: In the oven. You eat 'em.

Cynthia Cortez: Kill it, then cook it.

Eddie Everett: Put 'em in the pot. When they get done, then ya eat 'em.

Catrina Henderson: In a BIG pot.

Richmond arrested on marijuana charges

BELLE GLADE—Agents of Organized Crime Bureau arrested Bernard Austin "Barney" Richmond, part owner and general manager of Richmond Company in South Bay, on charges of trafficking in marijuana.

Richmond, 28, of 209 Aztec Rd., Clewiston, was picked up Tuesday morning at Swifty's Convenience Store on SR715 here, following an investigation that linked him with the seizure of 986 pounds of pot on Oct. 8.

Detectives Ernest A. Batista and Mark Wetherington of the Glades Detachment of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department said Richmond is suspected of being one of three suspects who fled the scene Oct. 8.

The investigation goes back to 4:30 a.m., Oct. 8 when a twin engine Cessna 421 landed at Okeelanta Sugarmill airstrip on US27 south of South Bay.

A panel truck was observed backing up to the aircraft and a few minutes later the truck left and was followed by a DEA (U.S.

Drug Enforcement Agency) helicopter which had been summoned to the scene.

The truck was stopped on US27, approximately three miles south of South Bay and three suspects ran into a sugar cane field.

James Bradley Parks, 25, of Fort Lauderdale was arrested immediately as he ran from the van. A pair of black cowboy boots belonging to one of the other suspects were found next to the sugarcane field.

The truck contained 986 pounds of marijuana, a 55 gallon drum of aviation fuel, scales, night scope, police monitor, walkie talkies, bolt cutters and a hacksaw.

A search of the area was conducted by deputies from the Belle Glade Sheriff's Sub-Station, K-9 units from the Sheriff's Department and the Belle Glade Police Department and PBSO helicopters. Due to the thickness of the sugar cane field, the suspects

Football playoff is set

Though the "Cracker Crystal Ball" football predicting contest officially ended this week, two of the 15 players are being forced into an overtime, sudden-death playoff.

Both Curtis Thompson and the Bank of Pahokee wound up the ten-week affair by missing three each and that meant the two weeks tie between them continues.

During the contest, both Thompson and Bubba Mock and crew at the bank have correctly called 69 of the 96 games scheduled. This makes their average an astounding 730 one many pro pickers would be happy to have.

In the last week of the contest, however, the Glades Central-Pahokee game broke a tie for the weekly winner between Beas Western Wear, J-Mark and Florida First National Bank. All three missed only two games in the last week and the winner, J-Mark, was decided by the total game score of 36 points in the tiebreaker.

In the last week of the contest, Florida State beat Memphis State, Kentucky whipped Florida, Alabama beat the University of Miami, Glades Day won and the Dolphins got beaten while San Diego upset Pittsburgh and Kansas City defeated Oakland, New Orleans fell to Seattle and Glades Central was victorious.

Other than those predictor's scores given above, Value Dollar missed four, Lockhart Ford four, Hughes Pharmacy three, All Pro Sporting Goods four, Flotation

see Contest P3

Can you give us a hand?

Unfortunately, since the Cracker Crystal Ball football contest has ended in a tie, we cannot as yet proclaim either Curtis Thompson or the Bank of Pahokee the "Glades Best Football Picker."

Therefore, we are asking you football fans out there for help. We need some ideas of how the tie can be broken.

If you have an idea, no matter what the idea, give us a call and let us know about it. We'll pick the best of the lot, in our judgement, and have Thompson and the Bank of Pahokee's selected list of prognosticators bump heads one more time.

The number to call is 996-2056. We'll be waiting to hear your idea!

BUBBA MOCK AND CURTIS THOMPSON
...square off for the tiebreaker.

Parents...

Must realize interference not helpful to child!

The blame for juvenile delinquency and juvenile crime has been lavishly spread among judges, youth services, and law enforcement agencies.

Often overlooked in the blame-spreading process is the one authority who can perhaps do the most to stanch this problem: the parent.

Clewiston Mayor Leon Bembry has asked parents to do more to help control this problem.

No one is saying that children should sit at home. But knowing and caring where children are and what they are doing is important.

There were egg throwings and tire slashings going on Halloween night. More recently, store windows were shot with pellet guns.

There has been fighting, brushes with law officers and break-ins as well.

Not all problems are caused by children, but a sizeable percentage are.

Parents need to be firm and loving with their children. They have to have some judgement about when their children are entertaining themselves in ways which may lead to bodily injury or jailtime. When it looks like the child is heading for trouble, that's the time for a sitdown talk.

Unfortunately this sitdown talk doesn't always happen. When children are picked up by law officers, all to often the parent says, "No, my son wouldn't do that."

Defense of the child may be sincere, naive, or blind. All too often the defense amounts to interference.

Attempts are made to blunt the process of the law. Sometimes the attempts are successful and the child is returned to the streets. When this happens, the youthful offender has less respect for the law than the first time he was picked up. A long string of repeated offenses unfold, leading to greater antagonism between parent, child, and law officers.

Everyone needs to swallow his medicine.

In most cases, children who commit punishable offenses already know the difference between right and wrong. They know that breaking into a house, taking someone's property, throwing eggs, and breaking windows is wrong.

They know to be scared when they are arrested.

Parents know they have a heavy responsibility to raise their children. They are responsible for everything their children do. They should know what their children are doing day and night. They are their children's keepers. They must develop values in their children which will permit them to live peacefully and productively in society.

Parents must also accept the fact that they are legally liable for their children's actions.

Parents should raise their children in keeping with the decent standards of society. Pulling strings to avoid prosecution or jail is not entirely honorable.

Most children have nothing more serious to worry about than their next date, college preparations, or a job. They certainly don't have to worry about jail or outwitting a policeman, unless they are somewhere doing something they shouldn't.

Parents and children need to realize this. Let's back up and take another look at the problem. Let's fulfill our parental responsibilities, and not throw rocks at law officers when they are trying to carry out their's.

As we express our happiness and heartfelt appreciation for all life's abundant treasures, and each of our many joys... let's remember the meaning and spirit that our forefathers gave to Thanksgiving, and their message of love and respect, warmth and sharing. Happy holiday.

Firm steps taken

President Carter has responded to the Iranian seizure of our embassy in Tehran with further firm, measured steps.

First, the State Department has made clear that it will not negotiate the release of the 62 American hostages. The protection of embassies is provided in international law. We do not negotiate concessions in order to enforce international law. We simply demand that international law be observed before there is any further discussion.

No government that cannot or will not observe international law can claim the right to sit at a negotiating table with those whose rights it is violating.

If we negotiate now, the next country with any grievance against us will seize our embassy and demand that we negotiate that grievance with them. None of our embassies in the Third World would be safe.

Second, the president has frozen $5 billion in Iranian assets — the property of the government of Iran and the Central Bank of Iran — in the United States. This was done only after Iranian threats to transfer all the assets out of the United States and thereby drive down the dollar.

The freeze will be seen as a reasonable step by any fair observer.

Third, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance has moved to head off a United Nations debate on Iran's grievances. There should be no debate until Iran releases the hostages.

Thus, while the United States has only a minimum reserve of spare missiles and has closed its only Minuteman production line, the Soviet Union is free to continue turning out intercontinental ballistic missile like sausages, to borrow the late Nikita Khrushchev's apt phrase.

Incredibly, the committee even rejected an amendment that would have denied the Soviets the right to keep some of their missile test data secret despite the fact that access to this information is critical to treaty verification. This was too much for the Senate's leading expert on verification, Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio. He voted against the treaty on grounds that Soviet compliance could not be adequately monitored.

As a sop to treaty opponents, Sen. Church agreed to support a laundry list of mostly cosmetic "understandings, declarations, and reservations" tacked onto the ratification resolution. Only two of these 20 unilateral statements require Moscow's agreement. The rest either have nothing to do with the treaty itself or are not binding on the Soviet Union.

In sum, the treaty now presented to the full Senate is no better than the poor bargain signed by Jimmy Carter last June in Vienna. Its deficiencies, inequalities and loopholes are such that it can neither impose a stable nuclear balance nor significantly slow a strategic arms competition that the Soviet Union is clearly winning.

TOM WILL BE MISSED

The community was saddened last Thursday afternoon as the word spread of the untimely passing of T.H. "Tom" Jones, Jr. Tom had been admitted to Hendry General Hospital Wednesday afternoon for an apparent heart attack and he passed away the next afternoon.

Tom represented a variety of individuals to those who knew him.

Tom was a pillar of his church and a member of its choir... a very religious person, who seldom if ever, uttered a profane word.

Tom was a family man, who loved his children and attended virtually all of the various school related activities in which they were involved.

Tom loved sports and was still playing basketball when others many years younger had hung up their shoes and shorts. He was a regular attendee of high school basketball and football for most of his years in Clewiston.

Tom was a civic-community oriented citizen. He held the distinction of being the senior member of the city commission... in years of continuous service... every single one of them gratis. He was a Lion and could be counted on for any community betterment project.

To some, Tom was one who would evade an issue, postpone a confrontation, and exert every effort to make everyone possible, happy. When these efforts failed, he voted his conviction, firmly and was prepared to ride out the storm. Probably more than most folks realize, his talent and often delayed tactics, were responsible for averting many situations which could have resulted in chaotic conditions and hard feelings.

Tom was a conservative who held firm reigns on the city pocket-book... he was for progress but he was one to know where the money was coming from before it was spent.

Tom was a company man... dedicated and devoted to his employer. He was a respected authority in his field... both by his employer, governmental circles, and the free enterprise system.

Tom was one to listen, generally taking several minutes to prepare his reply and offer his advice. Certainly Clewiston is a better place to live, because Tom Jones passed through. Tom was my friend who offered words of wisdom during my tenure on the commission, who would discuss community issues, offer words of praise and suggestions which he felt might better serve the community.

It is a simple statement... but has a tremendous meaning... Tom will be missed.

BOILER PLATE BY JIM JONES

I once saw a stewardess kneeling in the aisle praying. Our airliner circled Mount Fujiyama over Japan.

The passengers became concerned when the pilot announced he was trying to burn up fuel before landing. The plane had a bad engine, making the flight to Alaska risky.

I haven't been quite as concerned about flying in the following nine years. That is until this past weekend when I made a mad dash to Maryland.

The trip started beautifully. Half our flight attendants were male, but in fairness to them, they were as adept at serving as the ladies were.

Returning to Florida things became more interesting from the very start.

Walking through the metal detector gate, the little alarm sounded. I removed my keys from my pocket and tried again.

Again the alarm went off. "Sir would you please step over here," said a serious looking security officer.

Feeling highly conspicuous, I removed all the coins and my fingernail clipper from my pocket. On the third try I passed the metal detector test.

Things can only improve I thought as I took my seat and waited for the plane to arrive from Allenton. A few moments later we heard the announcement that our 5:35 p.m. flight had been cancelled by engine trouble.

Passengers and baggage were transferred to buses and we were driven south to Washington National for another flight.

Just as we came into the loading area the announcement was made that this flight would be delayed by engine problems.

Somewhere along the line as the hours rolled by we lost out on supper. This flight would only serve peanuts (really).

To help ease the pain, the flight attendants began serving complimentary mixed drinks and the mood onboard lightened somewhat.

Five hours after our original scheduled takeoff, the engine was repaired. But a new problem arose. The flight was oversold. Volunteers were recruited to give up their seats to three other passengers who had to get to Atlanta Sunday night.

As an inducement, the volunteers were offered $101 and a free flight to Atlanta an hour later. Quickly about five people tried to volunteer at once.

At 10:45 p.m. the plane at last took off, treating us to the beauty of Washington's lights below. Our flight to Atlanta was uneventful, except we were now so late that our connecting flights had all departed.

I had to change airlines in Atlanta to catch a 12:30 a.m. flight to West Palm Beach. Or wait until 10 a.m. the next morning. So running through the airport a la O.J. Simpson I made it on time and buckled myself in.

Before long we had touched down in West Palm Beach and I arrived in Clewiston about 5 a.m. Monday. My one suit case was elsewhere, and I'll track it down one of these days. I don't miss the dirty laundry so much, but I did have a special attachment to my toothbrush.

President Carter has handled the situation admirably so far by refusing to deport the deposed shah of Iran despite increasingly strong threats to the American hostages, and freezing Iranian money in American banks.

Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini is obviously looking for a major propaganda victory.

But should American blood be shed at the whims of a madman, let the sword fall swiftly.

SALT may yet be rejected

The dovish Senate Foreign Relations Committee has marched obediently to the Carter administration's drum, recommending ratification of the SALT II treaty after protecting it from any amendment that would annoy the Soviet Union. In doing so, the committee alienated several moderates and the final vote on the treaty was 9-6, less than a two-thirds majority and hardly a resounding endorsement of SALT II's terms.

If the Carter administration pursues the same all-or-nothing strategy on the Senate floor, it may win the battles over amendments only to find itself without the minimum 67 votes required for ratification.

As for the treaty itself, all of its least defensible provisions are fully intact, thanks to the dominant Frank Church-George McGovern wing of the Foreign Relations Committee.

The Soviets' growing fleet of supersonic Backfire bombers remains exempt from treaty limits despite the recent testimony of a senior Defense Intelligence Agency official that this aircraft is capable of reaching "virtually all targets in the United States" without refueling. The committee's rejection of an amendment requiring that the Backfires be counted toward SALT limits also contradicts the unanimous view of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

No matter, the Carter administration and the Kremlin are as one in insisting that any change in treaty terms constitutes a "killer amendment" that would wreck SALT II and vastly diminish, if not preclude, chances for further Soviet-American arms negotiations.

The committee resisted even stronger pressure for an amendment granting the United States the right to possess the kind of super-heavy missiles specifically reserved for the Soviets under SALT II. In opposing this altogether-reasonable amendment, administration spokesmen argued lamely that, because the United States has no plans to build such a missile during SALT II's six year life span, nothing is lost by surrendering the right to do so. Aside from the unfortunate negotiating precedent thus established, no one from the White House has explained why the Soviet Union should be permitted the exclusive right to a force of 308 heavy ICBMs so powerful that it exceeds the aggregate deliverable megatonnage of the 1,054 U.S. land-based missiles.

The heavy-missile amendment died on an 87 vote, a margin that fortunately guarantees its reappearance on the Senate floor.

An identical 8-7 vote turned back another amendment intended to close one of the treaty's most dangerous loopholes — its utter silence on the question of stockpiling ICBMs. The Soviets are known to have at least 1,300 reserve ICBMs not counted toward SALT limits because the treaty restricts only the numbers of conventional missile "launchers" and other strategic delivery systems, not the weapons them-

Berryman leaving West Area

Palm Beach County Board of officials said this week they expect School Superintendent Thomas Mills to recommend a replacement for outgoing West Area Superintendent of Education H. W. "Dick" Berryman when the board meets on Dec. 5.

Berryman is leaving his position about Dec. 14 in a lateral transfer to take over responsibilities as Assistant Superintendent of Regular Instruction for the entire school district.

"It isn't a promotion," Berryman said Tuesday. "It's a lateral transfer."

He said he would be taking over the supervision of federal programs, progress and evaluation ("so I'll still be involved in grade equivalents"), bi-lingual education and primary and secondary education, working out of the school board's central office in West Palm Beach.

"I have mixed emotions about leaving," Berryman said. "I've enjoyed the hell out of it here." Berryman has held down the post of West Area Superintendent of Education since he replaced James Maynor in 1975.

It's been during his tenure that a number of individuals and organizations, notably the Belle Glade Lions Club and Rotary Club, the Western Palm Beach County Farm Bureau, the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce, Sam Lovell and Bert Ward have been applying pressure to the school board to supply information to the public on exactly how well students in the West Area were doing.

Berryman administered the area's educational efforts during the time county instituted the APL (Adult Performance Level) Test, the state instituted the "Funky Lit" (Functional Literacy Exam) and the county instituted its pupil progression program to test students from the second through tenth grades, as well as beginning, only last month, to disseminate information on how students in the area are doing by grade equivalents.

County School Personnel Director Kenneth Scrimsher said Tuesday he was then in the midst of interviewing five applicants for Berryman's position.

"We've had about 15 applications," he said. "We went through the applications and chose the five most likely candidates for interviews. Tomorrow (today), we'll send the results of the interviews to Mr. Mills and he'll make a recommendation to the board on Dec. 5.

The contest began ten weeks ago with each of the 15 businesses being given a schedule of ten football games. The merchants picked the winners and the schedule appeared the week before the games were played.

This continued for ten weeks and each week one of the 15 winners appeared in the "winner's circle." Below the winner's circle, events that happened during the contest between the merchants was recorded in a column called, aptly, Hindsight.

There was no clear-cut leader in the contest until the seventh week when J-Mark and Thompson fell two games behind Bubba Mock at the Bank of Pahokee. Thompson was able during the remaining weeks to close the gap, but J-Mark was still one game behind at the contest end.

"We were really pleased with this promotion," said Biff Lampton, manager of the Herald-ObsERVER. "It's been one of the most talked about promotions we've ever done and the businesses seemed to have enjoyed the friendly competition of it."

Some of that "friendly competition" was indulged Joe Hughes at Hughes Pharmacy falling behind competitor Gilbert Alvarez of Gilbert's Jewelry and challenging Alvarez to a "sudden death jump-off."

Hughes and Alvarez made a friendly wager on the cover of the Herald-ObsERVER as Hughes saw his ratings slip and Alvarez's come up, he became concerned about his wager.

So, one afternoon Hughes took a spare parachute to Gilbert's and let it be known that if Alvarez wanted to collect the wager, it would have to be through the "sudden death jump-off." Hughes advised Alvarez to practice a little before the event as he handed over the parachute.

Each of the merchants placed advertising on the page along with their predictions and some of the businesses used the ads in novel ways. Arthur Jones and his chief picker, his wife Vicki, boldly stated that "Pharmacists, Jewelers and Car Dealers don't do as well as about football as those who watch the big screen color television in the Red Fox Lounge."

And as the contest ended, some of the prognosticators were heard to say, in the immortal words of Florida Gator fans "Wait'll next year!"

A HOUSECLEANING

The scandalous incompetence, cowardice and dereliction of duty of President Jimmy Carter encouraged the mob of Iran, incited by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, to seize the U.S. Embassy the second time after the fall of the Shah of Iran. The mob likewise captured 60 American hostages at the same time.

The failures of the Carter administration to defend the rights and interests of Americans and their allies and friends in Taiwan, Iran, Afghanistan, Rhodesia and recently in Cuba, and the surrender of the U.S. territory—the Panama Canal Zone—to Panama invited this mob violence in Iran.

Since the Carter administration signed the Salt II Treaty, which is very disadvantageous to the national security of the U.S., only naive persons expect Carter to defend the American rights and interests in any country in the future. In fact, President Carter has disgraced the Office of the President to such a degree that informed Europeans consider him a big joke.

Concerned and informed persons should do their best to cause defeat of President Carter and those senators, who voted for ratification of the Panama Canal treaties and who would vote for the Salt II Treaty, in the elections of 1980. We need a very thorough housecleaning in order to survive as a nation.

Sincerely yours,
s/Dr. Alexander V. Berkis

Raiders whip Pahokee, ready for Suncoast and the playoff

By DEAN JONES
Herald-Observer Editor

BELLE GLADE—A rejuvenated Glades Central football team, which took the measure of Pahokee with a 30-6 shellacking last Friday, is taking a head-on Suncoast High for the Region VII Class AAA championship Friday night.

Raider Coach Ben McCoy said Charles "Bull" Miller, who sat out the regular season game against Suncoast with an injured ankle, was playing at 100 per cent against Pahokee and Greg Bain, who was injured in the Suncoast game, will be at about 85 per cent for Friday night's game.

Bain, who went over the 1,000 yard mark for his season's rushing during the Suncoast game, the seventh of the year, picked up 66 yards Friday night to lead the Raider ground attack. McCoy said he only used Bain sparingly to save him for the post-season games. Bain's bruised knee didn't stop him from making two of the touchdowns against the Blue Devils.

Miller, meanwhile, made seven tackles and three assists, sacked the Pahokee quarterback twice and recovered two fumbles Friday night.

McCoy said Miller, "made all the difference in the world," and will be one of the players McCoy will key on during practice sessions this week. He said the line play was one of his problems when the Raiders faced Suncoast last month.

"Football is won or lost on the line," he said, "not in the backfield. We've got to get off the football better than we did (Oct. 26) and we'll be working on that this week."

McCoy said he also hopes to get the Raider defense to key better on Richard Reiford, the big Suncoast tight end, another reason he's depending on Miller.

"He's (Miller) going to make a big difference, both his leadership and his play."

McCoy said he wasn't surprised by anything Suncoast showed the Raiders in their first game this year. He said some of his players may have been surprised but he knows Suncoast is well coached.

"But I think we're going to beat them and I think we have a good chance to go all the way," he said. "I think we have a better ball club than they do."

Looking back on his second year at Glades Central, McCoy said he feels, "great about the season. We're just one or two plays away from an unbeaten year and meeting our goals...just one play away from an undisputed conference championship."

"I have nothing but praise for the players and coaches," McCoy said Monday. "I feel good to have been a part of this kind of organization."

While talking about the season and his relations with the community, McCoy said he had been asked by a number of people and he confirmed he was the son of Ben McCoy the boxer, remembered by a number of older residents.

He said the Raiders have finished their regular season and they're now embarking on a second season in the playoffs and for that reason, he hasn't been particularly upset with the fact Glades Central fell out of the state ratings after they were defeated by Suncoast.

"The hell with 'em, the sports writers and anyone else who puts 'em together," McCoy said of the ratings. "There are three teams listed in the top ten who've lost two games." He said he was interested in seeing how the ratings came out this week, the final week of state rankings. Again, the Raiders received votes but weren't ranked.

He said he intends to tell the team this week the outcome of the playoffs, particularly the regional game with Suncoast, will depend on which team is the hungriest.

He said the team was hungry and executed well against Pahokee.

The first score of that game came when quarterback Leonard Camel capped a 90-yard drive when he handed the ball off to Greg Bain, who hammered across for a seven yard touchdown run. Wilford Morgan's kick was no good and Glades Central led, 6-0.

The game's second score came when Johnny Dixon intercepted a pass on the Pahokee 30 and ran it back for a TD with 10:03 left in the second quarter. Morgan kicked the extra point and the Raiders led, 13-0.

The Glades Central defense picked up the Raiders' next two points when David Jones tackled the Pahokee quarterback in his own end zone for a safety, putting Glades Central a 16-point lead at the half.

In the third quarter, Camel handed off to Bain for a two-yard touchdown run. Morgan's kick attempt failed and the Raiders led, 21-0.

Early in the fourth quarter, Camel capped another Glades Central drive when he handed off to Vincent Jones on the Pahokee 12 and Jones drove to paydirt. The PAT failed and the Raiders led the Blue Devils, 27-0.

Shortly afterward, Wilford Morgan kicked a 30-yard field goal to end the Raider scoring, 30-0.

The Blue Devil's sole score of the night came with 3:45 left in the game when Nathaniel Hannah intercepted a Camel pass on the Glades Central 45 and ran it all the way to the end zone. Pahokee's PAT attempt failed and the scoring ended, 30-6.

Vincent Jones led the Glades Central rushing effort by carrying 11 times for 72 yards and one TD. He was followed by Bain, who made 66 yards in 16 carries, picking up two touchdowns, Willie McCoy who carried 11 times for 46 yards and Jessie Hester with 42 yards in three carries.

Camel completed three passes for 30 yards, connecting twice with Hester for 16 yards and again with Sam Smith for 14 yards.

David James led the defense with eight tackles and two assists, followed by Charles Miller with seven tackles and three assists, including two quarterback sacks, and two fumble recoveries, and Roy Webb and Johnnie Dixon with four tackles each. Dixon also intercepted a pass.

In total offense, Glades Central led Pahokee with 233 yards rushing and 30 yards passing compared to four yards rushing and 31 yards in the air.

Devils eye playoffs

PAHOKEE—Despite the 30-6 loss to Glades Central last Friday, along with the mythical Glades Championship and the services of two of his starting players, Pahokee High School football coach Antoine Russell said he is still confident going into Friday night's Region VII, Class AA championship game against Fort Lauderdale Pinecrest.

"I'm not too happy right now," Russell said Tuesday. "Two of my boys are on crutches and in casts." He said starting fullback Larry Barnes, with 385 yards rushing for the season, and George Torres, his starting nose guard, are on crutches with injured ankles.

Russell said the Blue Devils made a number of mental mistakes Friday night against Glades Central, "and you expect a good team like the Raiders to capitalize on them. We were beaten."

He said he was telling the members of his team they have to "suck it up" and play ball against Pinecrest though and, "Even with two kids hurt, I feel confident."

"To tell the truth," he went on, "I thought it was a year early because the team is so young but the kids put it together earlier than I anticipated and we're on our way to the playoffs."

Russell said he is concentrating on fundamentals this week, along with practicing defense against Pinecrest's wishbone offense. "This is the first time this year we've gone up against a wishbone. Most teams in the county use the I formation or the veer."

He noted that the Fort Lauderdale school, with a 9-1 record, is ranked number three in the state but didn't sound too worried about that since, to win the state championship, Pahokee will have to play "number three, number two and number one."

"With the wishbone," he said, "they play ball control and we're going to have to concentrate on taking the ball away."

FP&L dike break is checked

The South Florida Water Management District Governing Board has directed its staff to take whatever steps are necessary to determine what caused the recent break in a Florida Power and Light Company (FP&L) dike in Marin County, and as far as possible, to assure that such an event would never be repeated in South Florida.

This directive came after lengthy discussion with District staff members and representatives of the FP&L at the Board's monthly meeting, November 8 and 9, West Palm Beach. The Board's primary interests centered on reducing the amount of flood water, returning the area to normal, and clarifying the District's position on permitting of the reservoir facilities. A report, titled "Florida Power and Light Dike Failure and Its Impact on Project Facilities, Martin and Okeechobee Counties," was issued by the District at this meeting. The report details the activities of the Water Management District from the early morning hours after the dike break was discovered on October 31, until November 6. Work is continuing in the area, but could not be included in the report due to its on-going nature. The break in the FP&L dike caused severe damage to the District's levee, L-65. In addition, the tremendous volumes and velocities of water discharged from various District facilities will necessitate a complete examination of possible damages done to other structures. This work will be undertaken as soon as the emergency measures for relieving the flooding can be lessened.

"Our biggest concern is to get the immediate area of the blow-out dried enough to see what the hole looks like. There may be an important clue as to the cause of the failure waiting for us," said District Executive Director Jack Maloy. Temporary structures have been placed in the area, along with some portable pumps, to speed up that drying.

Representatives from FP&L and the company's engineering consultant on the reservoir, Brown and Root, answered questions raised by the District Board members. They noted that a three-man team of world-renowned experts on hydrology, geology and soils had been brought in during the engineering and construction of the reservoir to serve as "auditors" of the architectural-engineering firm. These experts had again been called in when the flooding occurred and are now attempting to determine how to proceed with an investigation of the incident.

Board members noted that this type of high level, world-esteemed investigation team would be looked to for answers to some very serious questions. The Board said FP&L has handled the situation thus far with openness and concern for the people affected and felt the public should appreciate the efforts the District and FP&L are making in this regard.

Along with a discussion as to the flooding and causes for the dike failure, the Board asked for clarification as to the District's role in permitting the reservoir facility. Staff reported that FP&L has obtained three permits from the District: one for the use of a specified amount of water to be contained in the reservoir; one for operation of a reservoir system; and one for the operation of an additional small surface water management system in another area of the Martin County plant's property.

In addition, the District and FP&L had executed an agreement detailing how the reservoir would be filled initially and how it was to receive additional amounts of water to make up for seepage or evaporation losses. It also dealt with how discharges of water were to be made when that was necessary. The agreement was made in 1973, while the permits were all issued in 1976.

Dick Rogers, Director of the District's Resource Control Department, pointed out that the District's primary involvement has always been in the area of water quantity. During the design and construction of the reservoir, the District was just beginning to become involved in regulatory matters and had not fully taken on responsibility for inspection of construction of surface water management programs.

"We have always worked under the assumption that a professional engineer's seal on a project was enough to ensure that it was built to specification," Maloy said. "We still feel that way, but our Board has made it clear that a reservoir of the magnitude the FP&L cooling area must be given closer scrutiny. Our Board has directed us to become directly involved in learning why the break occurred, and to devise a method by which we will evaluate the project as repairs are being proposed."

Thanksgiving baskets gathered at GCHS

Chairman for the Annual Thanksgiving Day Basket project for the Glades Central Community High School Student Council this year is to be Roger Mottley, a member of the Executive Staff of the Council, it has been announced.

The co-chairman of the project is to be Mark Coleman, Head Clerk Typist for the Council, school officials said.

The slogan chosen for this year's Thanksgiving project is: "Make someone happy, then you will be happy too."

Two major events have been planned for the purpose of gathering the needed items donated for the baskets. On Wednesday, an intramural event was held in the high school gym for the students at Glades Central, coordinated by our school's athletic director, Graham Frost.

A Pre-Thanksgiving Day Disco Matinee was held in the gym immediately after school the same day, with D.J. Hiawatha Plair, serving as disc jockey.

Each student was requested to bring one canned good or food item for admission to the intramural event, and students not bringing canned goods or food items were admitted for a donation of 50 cents.

If a student brought two canned goods or two food items, he was admitted to both the intramural event and the Disco Matinee free. Students not bringing food items were asked to pay a minimum donation of 50 cents per event.

First-period teachers were provided tickets to issue to students bringing canned goods or food items; funds collected from both events are to be used to purchase meat items and other vegetables for the Thanksgiving Baskets.

The entire student council will be working with Roger to see this project through to its completion, school officials said.

Burglary may cost thousands

Most of the equipment stolen during the Veteran's Day burglary of Chemspray, Inc. of 1550 E. Seventh St. in Pahokee had been recovered early this week but officers expected local merchants to be hit by thousands of dollars worth of bad checks.

Sheriff's Detective Robert Buxold and Belle Glade Police Department Detective J.R. Eberle estimated merchants would be stung for "at least" two to three thousand dollars of bad paper.

Buxold said the first report he had was that a check writing machine and about ten checks had been stolen Nov. 12 but late in the day of Nov. 13, the day the burglary was reported, he found another box of 250 checks had been stolen as well.

"The burglary wasn't reported to us until the opening of business hours Tuesday," Buxold said, "but we found the checks were stolen at 5:30 a.m. the morning before and some of the checks were on the street by 6 a.m. that day."

Buxold said news of the burglary wasn't disseminated until Wednesday because it wasn't until that day that he found a box of 250 checks had been stolen. "Until then we thought only about 10 checks had been stolen."

Many of the checks were recovered, along with the check writing machine. Tuesday afternoon, when two men were arrested in connection with the theft, but Buxold and Eberle said there are still some 40 checks unaccounted for and any or all of those checks could be in the process of going through the banks.

One Belle Glade grocery store reported losing more than $900 to the bad paper and another reported cashing more than $700 worth of the Chemspray checks.

Buxold pointed out that four checks, ranging in amounts from $150 to more than $300, were cashed by local businesses without asking for identification from the persons cashing the checks.

Buxold said two men were arrested at virtually the same time Tuesday afternoon in South Bay and Belle Glade in connection with the burglary and he was in the process Tuesday of getting arrest warrants made out on three more suspects.

Leroy Brice, 27, of 215 N.W. 11th St. in South Bay was arrested by South Bay Police Officer John Otto, Buxold said, in connection with other burglary charges and some of the Chemspray checks were found in his car.

At the same time, in Belle Glade, Eberle answered a call from a local merchant that one of the bad checks had just been passed in his store.

Eberle arrested Troy Johnson, 22, of 685 S.W. Fifth St. in Belle Glade as he was attempting to swallow one of the checks.

"It all started falling together for us then," he said. "Detective Kenneth Welly, Eberle and I started receiving calls from local businessmen who had received the stolen checks and to whom some of the stolen equipment had been sold."

Besides the checks and the check writing machine, Buxold said the burglars had made away with three calculators, a desk copying machine worth $4,700 and two typewriters.

He said he found the copying machine in a sugar cane field.

One dies on lake

LAKE HARBOR--A pleasure outing turned into tragedy Sunday afternoon when a Pennsylvania man was killed as a boat being driven by his brother rammed a channel marker in the Rim Canal near here.

Seven other members of the outing were pulled to safety from the submerged wreckage of the 16-foot boat.

Dead was Ernie Given, 27, of Gibsonia, Pa. He and his wife, Carolyn, were riding in the bow of the boat when it struck Channel Marker 92 less than a mile north of the Lake Harbor Pumping Station. They had been vacationing in the area and visiting Given's brother, Jeff Given, a Glades Central teacher who lives in West Palm Beach.

Also in the boat were Jeff Given's wife, Kelly, a teacher at Belle Glade Elementary School, the boat's owners, Kenneth and Rosemary Buchanan, who also teach at Glades Central, and their young daughter, Beth. Joyce McCabe was being pulled on water skis.

Carolyn Given was treated at Glades General Hospital for a fractured collarbone, then traveled to John F. Kennedy Hospital in West Palm Beach with her husband, who died there.

Annual politicians' barbeque is Dec. 7

BELLE GLADE--It'll be politics and barbeque as usual when elected officials from all over the county converge on the Aubrey Farmer Pavilion at the Belle Glade Marina for the Tenth Annual Palm Beach County Municipal League's Politicians' Barbeque but there'll be no bar to belly up to.

Following the trend set last year, when the barbeque was held at the Pahokee Lions Club while the municipal marina was under water, the annual blast thrown by Belle Glade, Pahokee and South Bay for the League will be BYOB, saving the three host cities the price of a free bar.

The day will get underway at noon and activities include free boat cruises on Lake Okechobee, free camping at the Belle Glade Marina and free greens fees at the Belle Glade Golf Course.

The annual party traditionally draws elected politicians and appointed officials from all 37 municipalities in Palm Beach

County, as well as officials from the county, the school board and the Palm Beach County Legislative Delegation.

Some consideration was given last year to cancelling the annual do in the wake of rising water in Lake Okechobee, rising costs and shrinking budgets.

Instead, the Belle Glade and South Bay City Commissions and the Pahokee City Council decided to continue the tradition but cut costs by eliminating the free bar.

Belle Glade City Clerk June Boglioli said she expects some 300 politicians to be on hand for the barbeque and socializing.

Glades girl may be tomorrow's star

By SUSAN CASSIDY
Herald-Observer Staff Writer
The Dolly Partons and Crystal Gayles of tomorrow's music industry could do worse than checking behind them in the near future. The Glades' own Vicki Lee may be gaining fast.

With 11 years experience of public singing behind her already, the 17-year-old Moore Haven native is in the midst of launching her professional career now with performances over the past two to three months at the Belle Glade Elks Club.

Vicki stresses Country and Western but her weekend performances before crowds of Elks also features Pop songs, older music she likes and, on Nov. 3, she introduced for the first time a song she had written.

She said she first sang solo in public at the age of six, rendering her version of "Jesus Loves Me" at the First Baptist Church in Moore Haven.

"I started singing as soon as I could walk," Miss Lee said. "I always used to get the words mixed up. I went to the Cleveland Music Settlement for one year and studied piano. I wanted to 'take voice' but wasn't old enough."

She said she had also attended and performed at the National Future Farmers of America Convention in Kansas City. She said she received a lot of exposure there, adding to the reputation she had already begun building in the Moore Haven area.

Miss Lee said she tries to sing as varied a number of songs as she can so she'll appeal to all the different age groups that come to listen to her so everyone can have a good time.

"I want to stay simple and just the way I am, whatever the future brings for me," she said. "I just want to share with people what I can do. I want them to forget about their troubles and relax and smile and have a good time."

"Of course, she said, "I want to go to Nashville and sit elbow with all the popular stars." Miss Lee went on, "but wherever I go, I'll return to Moore Haven. It grows on you."

Vicki said the only star she's rubbed elbows with so far has been Barbara Fairchild, when Miss Fairchild appeared locally and invited her to dinner.

She said she idolizes Larry Gatlin and Kenny Rogers and she really likes their mellow sounds.

"What I need right now," she said, "is to get a good backup group with good sound so I can get out and communicate with the people more, instead of sitting behind the piano all the time."

Vicki said she is always humming and thinking about music. She said she isn't going to let anything interfere with her career, a goal obviously shared by her mother, Shirley Sellers, who is always on hand at Vicki's performances to provide moral support.

Miss Lee's commitment to music doesn't take up all her time, however. She said she's also interested in all kinds of sports, particularly gymnastics, and she loves to read and is interested in journalism. She is a senior at Grace Christian Academy in Moore Haven and attends Grace Bible Church.

Miss Lee said she is grateful to the boost given her career by her former manager, Jackson Jean, and she'd like an opportunity to thank the crowds at the Elks Club.

Her next appearance at the Elks Club in Belle Glade will be at 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Playground fantasies

As any youngster will tell you, a playground's more than just a collection of swings, monkey bars and slides.

For the avid imaginations of the Tam Sawyer and Huck Finn crowd, school playgrounds provide everything from a raft on the Mississippi to a spaceship to the moon.

Taking a break from the morning's studies at Glades Day School in Pahokee one day this week, students climbed fortresses, winged their way heavenward and forded great rivers after climbing vast mountains, all in pursuit of the magical moment known, previously, as recess.

And, no matter where their imaginations may have let them wander during their brief respite from the three R's, all was calm and ordered as they trooped diligently back to their classrooms later, to face the real-life problems of the New Math and the old history.

Motherhood training: How not to sleep

I read an article recently that said women over 60 often have difficulty sleeping.

Not most of these women are mothers, I'm not surprised. They've forgotten how.

I am... or was... your basic chronic sleeper. I did it, every day, at least once, for hours on end. I appreciated a good night's sleep the way some people savor the bouquet of rich, robust wine.

Then I became a mother. And my life became intervals of relative consciousness loosely strung together with a series of catnaps. Those naps, by the way, leave a lot to be desired: no wonder cats need nine lives.

The first night home with the new baby should've tipped me off. By morning, I was considering taking up drinking as a vocation and wondering why I hadn't thought of getting a Cocker Spaniel instead.

...in the fast lane

By

The pediatrician told me to hang in there until the baby started sleeping "through the night." Forget it. His idea of sleeping "through the night" is when the baby wakes up at 5 a.m.

The night is NOT through at 5 a.m., Doc. I may be through, but the night isn't.

After that, you go through a long series of reasons for wandering the hallways at night: check-to-see-if he's breathing, nighttime coughs and earaches, tucking the covers (for the 6501st time), and trins to what the Victorians delicately used to call the Water Closet.

By the time the little darling has convinced you that he can inhale and exhale without supervision, you think you'll never return to normal.

I have it on the finest authority that life doesn't return to normal until your youngest child is grown and married.

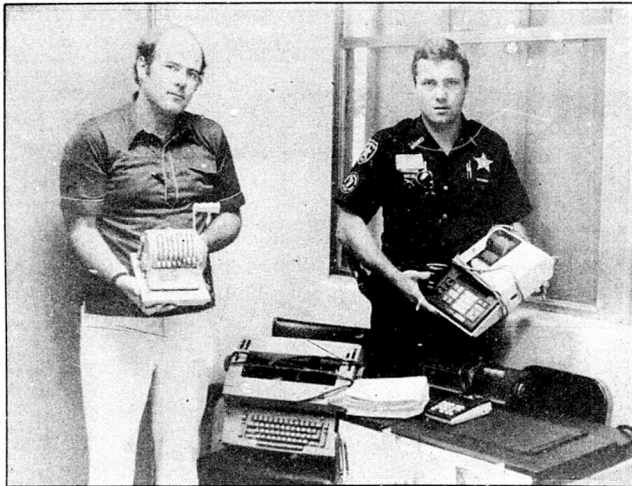

The elementary age, with its built-in compulsion to see how many reasons there are for not going to bed

(much less going to sleep), is followed in quick succession by the junior-high age with its compulsion for late, late-late and early-early shows on TV, and the high school age, with its compulsion not only for staying up half the night, but out half the night as well.

When I was a baby, my parents rocked me to sleep at 6 p.m., when I was seven, I went to bed at 8 p.m. As a teenager I was constantly reminded of how I needed my sleep and, in college, they had a less-than-generous, strictly-enforced "lights-out" time in the dorm.

All of these were designed, I was told, to make me a healthy, vigorous adult and, presumably, a good mother.

Poppycock. If they'd wanted me to learn to be a good mother, they should've been teaching me how to stay awake, not how to go to sleep.

Survivors include her son, Johnny Lee Chadwell of St. Paris, Ohio; her daughter, Betty Emory of Belle Glade and four grandchildren.

Following the funeral services, burial was held in Port Mayaca Cemetery in Martin County. Mixson Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Glades girl may be tomorrow's star

By SUSAN CASSIDY
Herald-Observer Staff Writer

The Dolly Partons and Crystal Gayles of tomorrow's music industry could do worse than checking behind them in the near future. The Glades' own Vicki Lee may be gaining fast.

With 11 years experience of public singing behind her already, the 17-year-old Moore Haven native is in the midst of launching her professional career now with performances over the past two to three months at the Belle Glade Elks Club.

Vicki stresses Country and Western but her weekend performances before crowds of Elks also features Pop songs, older music she likes and, on Nov. 3, she introduced for the first time a song she had written.

She said she first sang solo in public at the age of six, rendering her version of "Jesus Loves Me" at the First Baptist Church in Moore Haven.

"I started singing as soon as I could walk," Miss Lee said. "I always used to get the words mixed up. I went to the Cleveland Music Settlement for one year and studied piano. I wanted to take voice but wasn't old enough." She said she had also attended and performed at the National Future Farmers of America Convention in Kansas City. She said she received a lot of exposure there, adding to the reputation she had already begun building in the Moore Haven area.

Miss Lee said she tries to sing as varied a number of songs as she can so she'll appeal to all the different age groups that come to listen to her so everyone can have a good time.

"I want to stay simple and just

the way I am, whatever the future brings for me," she said. "I just want to share with people what I can do. I want them to forget about their troubles and relax and smile and have a good time."

"Of course, she said, "I want to go to Nashville and sit elbow with all the popular stars," Miss Lee went on, "but wherever I go, I'll return to Moore Haven. It grows on you."

Vicki said the only star she's rubbed elbows with so far has been Barbara Fairchild, when Miss Fairchild appeared locally and invited her to dinner.

She said she idolizes Larry Gatlin and Kenny Rogers and she really likes their mellow sounds.

"What I need right now," she said, "is to get a good backup group with good sound so I can get out and communicate with the people more, instead of sitting behind the piano all the time."

Vicki said she is always humming and thinking about music. She said she isn't going to let anything interfere with her career, a goal obviously shared by her mother, Shirley Sellers, who is always on hand at Vicki's performances to provide moral support.

Miss Lee's commitment to music

doesn't take up all her time, however. She said she's also interested in all kinds of sports, particularly gymnastics, and she loves to read and is interested in journalism. She is a senior at Grace Christian Academy in Moore Haven and attends Grace Bible Church.

Miss Lee said she is grateful to the boost given her career by her former manager, Jackson Jean, and she'd like an opportunity to thank the crowds at the Elks Club.

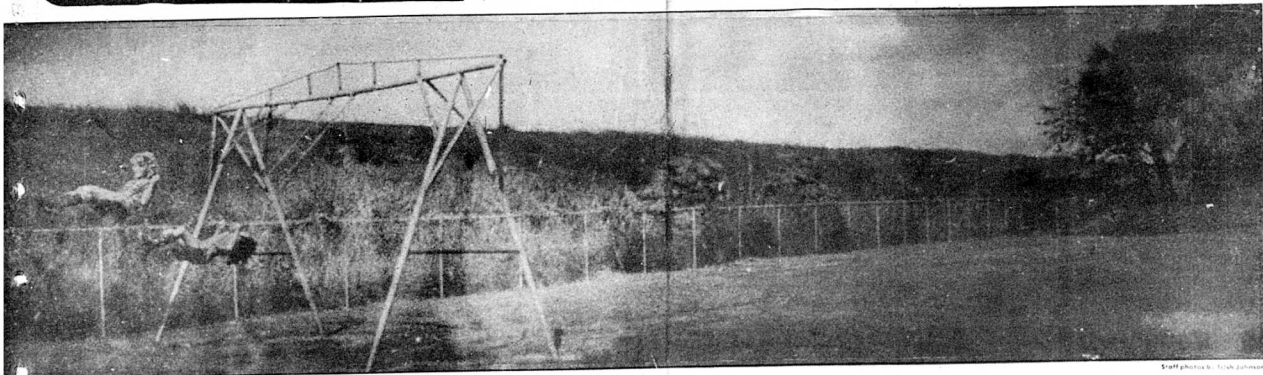

Her next appearance at the Elks Club in Belle Glade will be at 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Playground fantasies

As any youngster will tell you, a playground's more than just a collection of swings, monkey bars and slides.

For the avid imaginations of the Tam Sawyer and Huck Finn crowd, school playgrounds provide everything from a raft on the Mississippi to a spaceship to the moon.

Taking a break from the morning's studies at Glades Day School in Pahokee one day it is week, students climbed fortresses, winged their way heavenward and forded great rivers after climbing vast mountains, all in pursuit of the magical moment known, previously, as recess.

And, no matter where their imaginations may have let them wander during their brief respite from the three R's, all was calm and ordered as they trooped diligently back to their classrooms later, to face the real life problems of the New Math and the old history.

Motherhood training: How not to sleep

I read an article recently that said women over 60 often have difficulty sleeping.

If most of these women are mothers, I'm not surprised. They've forgotten how.

I am... or was... your basic chronic sleeper. I did it every day, at least once, for hours on end. I appreciated a good night's sleep the way some people savor the bouquet of rich, robust wine.

Then I became a mother. And my life became intervals of relative consciousness loosely strung together with a series of catnaps. Those naps, by the way, leave a lot to be desired; no wonder cats need nine lives.

The first night home with the new baby should've tipped me off. By morning, I was considering taking up drinking as a vocation and wondering why I hadn't thought of getting a Cocker Spaniel instead.

...in the fast lane

By TRISH JOHNSON

The pediatrician told me to hang in there until the baby started sleeping "through the night." Forget it. His idea of sleeping "through the night" is when the baby wakes up at 5 a.m.

The night is NOT through at 5 a.m., Doc. I may be through, but the night isn't.

After that, you go through a long series of reasons for wandering the hallways at night: check-to-see-if-he's breathing, nighttime coughs and earaches, tuck-in the covers (for the 6,501st time), and trins to what the Victorians delicately used to call the Water Closet. By the time the little darling has convinced you that he can inhale and exhale without supervision, you think you'll never return to normal.

I have it on the finest authority that life doesn't return to normal until your youngest child is grown and married.

The elementary age, with its built-in compulsion to see how many reasons there are for not going to bed

(much less going to sleep), is followed in quick succession by the junior-high age with its compulsion for late, late-late and early-early shows on TV, and the high school age, with its compulsion not only for staying up half the night, but out half the night as well.

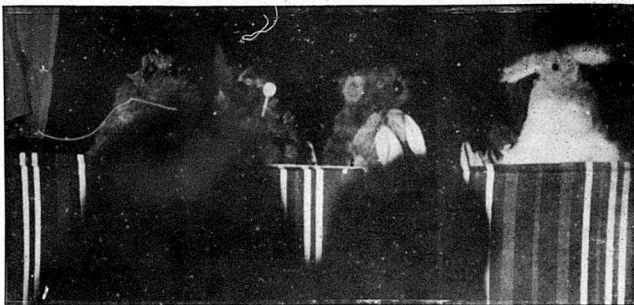

When I was a baby, my parents racked me to sleep at 6 p.m.; when I was seven, I went to bed at 8 p.m. As a teenager I was constantly reminded of how I needed my sleep and, in college, they had a less-than-generous, strictly-enforced "lights-out" time in the dorm.

All of these were designed, I was told, to make me a healthy, vigorous adult and, presumably, a good mother.

Papaycock, if they'd wanted me to learn to be a good mother, they should've been teaching me how to stay awake, not how to go to sleep.

PUPPET CHARACTERS TAKE CENTER STAGE WHILE YOUNGSTERS WATCH
... Show was presented to local students and the public.

Furry friends star in musical

Belle Glade Municipal Library employees received rave reviews last week from area youngsters attending the library's musical puppet show, "Runaways." Children from area public and private schools, day care centers and youth organizations were invited to attend a series of performances of the puppet show throughout the week. Two performances on Saturday were open to the general public. The show included music from "Dr. Seuss Songbook," Disney Productions' "The Jungle Book," and the musical, "The Wiz."

Make Cornish hens for holiday feast

We have a very small family, and this year for Christmas I'd like to serve something smaller than turkey, like Cornish hens or duckling. What do you suggest?

O.L.

Belle Glade

We think Cornish hens make a nice, festive dish, and everyone always seems to enjoy having their own "bird." Try this recipe for hens, allowing one bird per person:

HOLIDAY CORNISH HENS

- 6 Rock Cornish game hens
- Salt and pepper
- 1/2 c. butter, melted
- 1 lg. can dark, sweet, pitted cherries
- 2/3 c. brandy
- 2 Tblsps. lemon juice
- 1/2 can chicken broth
- 2 tps. cornstarch
- 3 Tblsps. cherry syrup
- Heat oven to 425-degrees F.
- Sprinkle hens inside and out with salt and pepper; then brush hens with butter and place on sides. Roast for 10 minutes; turn hens on other side, brush again with butter and roast for another 10 minutes. Turn hens breast side up, brush with butter and roast 25-40 minutes, or until brown, basting often. Remove hens to platter and keep warm. Drain cherries, reserving syrup. Pour off excess fat in roaster and place roaster over medium heat on top of stove. Add brandy and cook one minute, stirring. Add all the cherry juice, lemon juice and chicken broth. Simmer 3-4 minutes.

Add cherries, and mix cornstarch with 3 tablespoons cherry syrup; stir mixture into sauce. Bring to boil, stirring constantly to prevent lumps. Pour sauce over hens on platter and serve.

Can you recommend a good side dish to serve at a buffet supper? I always seem to end up with some noodle dish, and I'm not really happy with that.

E.M.

Belle Glade

This apple-sausage bake is perfect for this season, since apples are plentiful and are at their best price right now. Also, this dish seems to go equally well with a beef or poultry main dish.

APPLES WITH SAUSAGE STUFFING

- 8 lg. baking apples
- 1 Tbsp. butter
- 1/4 c. chopped fresh onion
- 1/2 lb. bulk sausage
- 1 c. packed brown sugar
- 1 tsp. dried sage
- 1/2 tsp. dried thyme
- 1/2 tsp. grated orange rind
- 1 1/2 tps. salt
- Pepper to taste
- 1/4 c. chopped walnuts
- 1/4 c. fresh orange juice

Core apples and pare each about one-fourth of the way down. Carefully scoop out center to make hollow shells; reserve scooped-out pulp.

Melt butter in large skillet; add onion and cook until tender. Add sausage and cook until browned. Add reserved apple pulp, brown sugar, sage, thyme, orange rind, salt, pepper and walnuts. Cook two minutes.

Spoon into prepared apples. Place in shallow baking dish; pour orange juice over apples.

Bake, uncovered, in 350-degree F. oven 50 or 60 minutes, or until tender. Makes 8 servings.

Church circle

The Simonson-Lair Circle met with Dorothy Stately serving as hostess. Assisting her was Nellie Moss, who helped serve the eight members and one guest, Mrs. Bruce Bowe, attending the meeting.

Presiding at the meeting was Uldine Todd, and Tina Elliott introduced Myrtle Johnson, who gave the program on "The Isles of Greece."

New officers elected at the meeting, including Mrs. Todd, were Mrs. Jesse Elliott, program chairman; Rabina Blakey, secretary; and Nellie Moss, treasurer.

Taking it from the top

By REV. DAVID T. EVANS
Everglades Presbyterian Church

Now that decorations for Christmas are up around the city, we begin to think about the celebration of the birth of Christ. Yet, the world is not sure when Jesus was born.

His birthday was not celebrated until more than 300 years after his death. Then, the day celebrated was the date of the pagan feast, Burmalia, which was the time of the British Saxon and Norse Yule and the feast of the returning sun. The birthday of Jesus has been variously determined. For three centuries the day of the Resurrection was the focal point of the Christian emphasis. In the third century, dates in the spring were celebrated by certain groups, from March 28 to May 20.

A controversy within Christianity over the humanity of Christ brought renewed interest in his birth. The argument over Christ's humanity ended in the Council of Nicea in 325, which produced the famous Nicene Creed, used by many of the Christians.

This creed states that Jesus Christ "was made man," and was "Very God of Very God."

The earliest celebration on Dec. 25 as a church festival took place in 336 A.D. The eastern Christians, who leaned toward the leadership of the church at Constantinople, recognized Jan. 6, which is now observed as Epiphany, or the Manifestation of our Lord. This was the time of the presentation to Jesus of the gifts by the eastern astrologers, or wisemen.

Since the opinion on the date was divided as late as 386 A.D., the great Chrysostom says that many opposed the celebration of Christ's birthday on Dec. 25. He states that the church at Antioch did not begin to observe the 25th until ten years before. The setting of the date, according to tradition, took place when Bishop Cyril of Jerusalem asked Bishop Julius of Rome (Pope Julius I) to ascertain the exact date of Christ's birth. His calculation was Dec. 25, based on Josephus' (an early church historian) supposition that Zechariah's vision (Luke 1) took place at the Feast of Tabernacles.

This feast takes place on the 15th day of the seventh month, Tishre, (Jewish calendar), corresponding to September-October. This is not certain, but it prevailed.

Dec. 25 coincided with the pagan feast of Burmalia in honor of the winter solstice (sun farthest from the equator) and following the Saturnalia (Dec. 17-24), celebrating the shortest day of the year, the new sun, and the beginning of the lengthening of the days.

The feast days were ones of frivolity with the riot and merry-making which is carried over into the Christmas celebration.

The important thing about Christmas is not the actual date by the reason for it. With its celebration, the world has turned from its worship of the sun to the adoration of the Son of God.

Dr. John Janssen, Professor of New Testament at Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, says, "Clearly, the date of Dec. 25 has no chronological basis. It is, however, liturgically and theologically legitimate. On the one hand, a festival of nature becomes a signpost of Him who is not only the redeemer of men but the redeemer of creation. On the other hand, the emphasis on Christ's birth reminds the Church that the Christ spirit was no passing and momentary union with the human life of Jesus, that the Incarnation was no masquerade, but that one and forever Jesus Christ is very God of very God and very man of very man."

For more than 1,600 years Christians have celebrated Christmas on Dec. 25, as the day of God's gift to the world.

Giving, to be true giving, must be in the spirit of God's all-out giving to us... even Jesus Christ. In this giving of Christ, we have the gift of peace.

Weddings

Flowers-Huggins

Judith Diane Huggins of Lakeland and Phillip L. Flowers of Moore Haven were married Oct. 20 in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Huggins of Lakeland. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pendarvis of Moore Haven.

Officiating at the ceremony was Rev. Samuel Sparks.

The bride wore a full-length pink gown with matching hat. Maid of Honor was Sylvia Pendarvis, sister of the bridegroom.

Best man was James Huggins, brother of the bride. The couple will make their home in Lakeland.

Pahokee Club sets Bazaar

The Pahokee Woman's Club has set Dec. 8 as the date of their annual Christmas Bazaar, according to Clark Wilkinson, president of the organization.

Meeting recently for a luncheon, club members also set Dec. 12 as the date for their annual Christmas meeting, at which members will collect wrapped and labeled gifts for distribution to patients in the Veterans Administration Hospital and the Florida School for Youth at Okechohobee.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Ann Alderman, assistant principal at South Bay Elementary School and Canal Point Elementary School, who presented a program on education in Palm Beach County, according to club member Susan Rozelle.

According to club members, the annual Christmas bazaar will feature baked goods, Christmas tree ornaments and crafts articles. The bazaar is open to the public.

Getting married?

The Herald-Observer publishes wedding and engagement announcements as a public service and there is no charge for this service.

Engagement announcements must be in our office by 5 p.m. Monday for publication the following Thursday. Engagement announcements must be published at least one calendar month before the wedding date.

Wedding announcements should appear the first Thursday following the day of the ceremony and also must be in our office by 5 p.m. Monday. The Herald-Observer will publish wedding announcements without pictures if more than three weeks have elapsed since the ceremony.

Photos to accompany announcements should be black and white and not copies of color photographs. Polaroid prints and snapshots usually do not reproduce in newspapers with the same degree of quality as a formal portrait. Portraits are generally used for engagement announcements, and full-length photographs may be used of brides alone, or brides and bridegrooms together.

Although we will take all precautions in safeguarding the pictures, the Herald-Observer cannot guarantee the return of photographs.

Forms for submitting announcements are available at our office on Main Street in Belle Glade, and our office on Annona Street in Pahokee. Forms will be mailed to out-of-town residents and requests for forms may be sent to: Herald-Observer, P.O. Box 760, Belle Glade, FL 33430. Your telephone number must be provided on the form, and the announcement must be signed.

Contents of the published announcement is left to the discretion of the editor, with respect to available space, style and relativity.

Duty roster Seaman Completes Training

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice Robert E. Cox has completed recruit training at the Coast Guard Training Center in Cap May, N.J., according to Navy officials.

Cox, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Tibbels of Belle Glade, was among trainees who studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training which is expected to lead to one of the Coast Guard's occupational fields, Navy officials noted.

Included in their studies were first aid, seamanship, history and regulations of the Coast Guard, close order drill and damage control.

Cox joined the Coast Guard in September.

SPORTS SHORTS

Could you ski at over 63 miles an hour? That's the record for competitors to beat at the 1980 Winter Olympics. It was set in 1976 by Austrian Olympic downhill champion, Franz Klammer.

One of the more dangerous Olympic sports is luge tobogganing. Competitors lie on toboggans that have neither braking nor steering mechanisms and slide down a twisting, 1,000-meter, concrete course. The new run at Lake Placid is completely refrigerated, and the only one in the Western hemisphere.

These and other Olympic facts and figures are found in a new poster and student guide to the 1980 Winter and Summer Olympics, created by ArtCarved Class Rings, a leading producer of high school class rings. It is available free at their authorized jewelry stores.

Experts expect Eric and Beth Heiden, the U.S. brother-sister team, to capture many of the speed skating medals in the 1980 Olympics. They'll compete on a $3 million, 400-meter course, wearing outfits specially designed to reduce wind resistance. Even the skates, which have extra thin blades, are constructed of especially thin leather for extra lightness.

DID YOU KNOW?

That market research surveys have shown that customers choosing a restaurant often rank "cleanliness" as more important than either "atmosphere" or the quality of food and service?

That disposable foam cups are one sign of a clean restaurant? As the Foam Cup and Container Division of the Society of the Plastics Industry (a member of Keep America Beautiful), points out, foam cups are only used once. Customers get a clean cup every time.

That foam containers help maintain food and drink at their proper temperature better than other disposable products?

That customers can help keep restaurants and other places clean by being careful not to litter? Littering is a people problem, and only people can solve it.

QUICK-MIXING IDEAS CAN SPEED HOLIDAY COOKING

Thanksgiving Day dinner takes many long hours to prepare and mere minutes to gobble up! How can you spend less time preparing the holiday dinner and serve leftovers that are as good to gobble as the first time around? Gold Medal® Wondra® flour makes it easier!

Quick-mixing Wondra can begin by getting your turkey gravy and vegetable sauces quickly to the table while everything else is still piping hot. You can do this easily because Wondra pours like salt—especially in the convenient Pour 'n Shake® canister—and it mixes instantly in cold liquids.

And no more worry about dull leftovers once Thanksgiving dinner is over. Instead of serving the same meal over and over again, use your imagination with Wondra to create a different main dish for every meal. Try using Wondra for sauces and pastries to make casseroles, meat pies, crepes, sandwiches, popovers and more. You'll find that it blends better and is easier to handle than regular all-purpose flour.

Discover the delicious ways to use Wondra in your everyday cooking in the "Cooking with the Greatest of Ease" booklet. Free copies of the Wondra recipe booklet are available by writing: General Mills, Inc., P.O. Box 6, Dept. 940, Minneapolis, MN 55460.

SWISS TURKEY PIE

Pastry (below) 2 tablespoons Gold Medal Wondra flour
1 1/2 cups cut-up cooked turkey 4 eggs
1 cup shredded natural Swiss cheese (about 4 ounces) 3/4 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup finely chopped onion 1/8 teaspoon sugar
1/8 teaspoon dried thyme leaves

Heat oven to 425°. Prepare Pastry. Mix turkey, cheese, onion and flour; sprinkle in pastry-lined pie plate. Beat remaining ingredients with hand beater; pour over turkey mixture. Bake 15 minutes.

Reduce oven temperature to 300°. Bake until knife inserted 2 inches from edge comes out clean, about 30 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes before cutting. 6 servings.

Pastry

1 cup Gold Medal Wondra flour
1 tablespoon toasted sesame seed 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup plus 1 tablespoon shortening
2 to 3 tablespoons water

Beat flour, sesame seed, salt and shortening in large mixer bowl on low speed, scraping bowl constantly, 1 minute. Beat in water, scraping bowl constantly, until all flour is moistened and pastry begins to gather into beads, about 1 minute. Gather pastry into ball; shape into flattened round on lightly floured cloth-covered board. Roll 1 1/2 inches larger than inverted pie plate, 9 x 1 1/4 inches, with stockinet-covered rolling pin. Ease in/o plate; trim pastry and flute.

Practical Tips for Beauty and Economy

How can you conceal an ugly architectural flaw in your kitchen without costly remodeling? Wallcoverings can be an inexpensive way to lighten and brighten dark rooms, and conceal difficult shapes.

How do you decorate a long and narrow bathroom without costly remodeling? Today's interior designers suggest putting a definite wallcovering pattern on the shorter walls and a plain texture on the long side.

When you go out shopping, you might like to take a look at "The Preferred Look" collection of vinyl wallcoverings in the Panta Astor sample book. There, color is the key.

For the kitchen, the Panta Astor experts advise:

- Think in terms of bright, cheerful, "happy" colors. Your kitchen is usually the first area you see in the morning, and the spot where you spend a greater part of your evening.

- Since almond is the most popular new appliance color, consider a pattern like "Spice & Nice," whose array of spices in their natural state blends nicely with almond. Coordinate patterns and harmonizing fabrics are also available.

- Whether you're a homemaker or working woman or both, your kitchen should make a definite, positive statement about you and the way you live.

For the bath, experts suggest:

- You can get away with almost anything in a small space, so discard all the rules here.

- For added drama, try a brushed metallic wallcovering like "Waves of Flowers" from Panta Astor's "Soft & Bold" collection. It comes in a variety of color waves with splashes of flowers for interest.

- To pull the entire room together and protect against humidity, cover the ceiling with wallcovering.

Follow these tips and you can help yourself to a happier home at a reasonable cost.

MESSAGE TO BUSINESS-GET YOUR ACT TOGETHER

Robert V. Krikorian, vice chairman and chief executive officer of Rexnord Inc., told a group of business leaders that "we in business must get our act together" or additional governmental regulation will be an inevitable result. "Unless business people are able to convert public perception to a more positive view of American business, we will continue to be in deep trouble," he said.

Speaking before a meeting of the Machinery and Allied Products Institute, he explained that he is a firm believer in the American institution of business. "It has proven to be the best system in the world to provide goods and services needed by our society and capable of providing a higher standard of living for our people. I believe in our business system because it is open to all who are willing to commit themselves."

But, he said, "public trust in business has been harmed because the public has for too long read about improper business practices, including price-fixing, bribery, poor product quality, misuse of inside information and violation of laws, both here and abroad." He also noted that business has also done a poor job of explaining itself and its proper role in the American system.

He offered 12 specific actions that business people can take to build mutual trust between business and the public.

1. Acknowledge openly that the primary purpose of business is to serve society. And to do that over a long period of time business must operate profitably.

2. Set company goals and objectives that can be achieved through normal—that is to say ethical—business practice.

3. Be certain that all our communication with employees and other publics reflect the facts clearly, accurately and fairly.

4. With counsel and care, develop a written code of ethical conduct that will fit as tight at the top as at the bottom of the organization.

5. Outside members of the Board of Directors of our companies must actively monitor performance of management to assure that all company obligations are met both ethically and legally.

6. Don't condone wrong doing inside or outside your company—don't make excuses for those in business who abuse the system.

7. Seek out, assist, and support individuals, companies, educators, or other organizations in their efforts to teach, interpret, or strengthen our system.

8. Increase corporate support to cultural, health, educational and community activities wherever you operate—not just in your headquarters city.

9. Think twice before lining up at the government trough if we're really interested in governmental deregulation.

10. Speak out on the issues! Be involved! Encourage all of your employees to do the same.

11. Rethink the effect of your financial messages on the public. Make profit reports less susceptible to misinterpretation.

12. Provide an open and informative channel of communication with your customers, your critics and all your publics. Provide answers to legitimate questions without unnecessary delay. Keep this bridge open and active—in both directions.

QUICK QUIZ

Are you hot on the subject of energy? This quiz can help you tell.

1. The largest producer of crude petroleum is (a) the United States (b) the U.S.S.R. (c) Saudi Arabia?

2. Since the current crude shortage began the government has insisted that major oil companies supply small refineries with low-sulphur crude oil. An end to these sales could mean (a) more energy (b) less energy (c) about the same amount of energy available?

3. About how much of the free world's oil supply does the U.S. consume? (a) half (b) a third (c) a tenth?

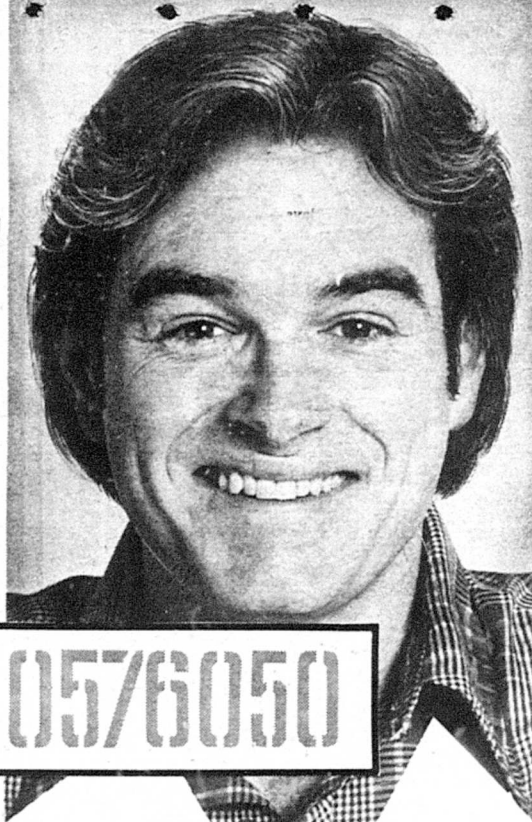

ANSWERS: 1. (b) According to "Crude Oil Production Annual 1978," an Energy Information Administration publication, estimated production for Russia was just over four billion barrels; Saudi Arabia just under three billion barrels; and for the U.S., close to 3.2 billion barrels. 2. (a) According to the energy experts at Mobil, many of these small refineries do not have the sophisticated cracking and upgrading units needed to turn crude into products like unleaded gasoline. An end to government-ordered crude sales could mean an extra two million gallons of gasoline and distillate a day. This could rise to four million gallons a day if crude oil flowed to the most efficient refiners. 3. (b) According to the Central Intelligence Agency, the U.S. uses close to 20 million barrels of oil a day, or about a third of the 59.9 million produced by the entire world.

SAFETY SENSE

Is your home the picture of safety? It may not be if you have old films in your attic. The 35mm film used in movie theaters till the early 1950s deteriorates with age and in time can become a fine brown powder that can burst into flame at temperatures as low as 106° F.—a temperature found in many attics.
